

Ernest C. Dreher

AIA

Vice President - Architecture

In his role at TEG, Ernie is responsible for client relations from the initial discover with clients, through the programming and design phases. He truly excels in assisting clients at solving their facility challenges through efficient design, ultimately ensuring that their vision and strategic objectives are fulfilled. During his career with TEG, he has completed over 30 master site and facility plans, his primary focus within the firm. He has worked internationally while at TEG travelling to the UAE, Costa Rica and Panama to represent the firm and to develop creative solutions for clients with lesser-developed healthcare environments. He continues to work closely with Wayne Estopinal to pursue international work, as well as with the leadership team in the recruitment and retention of domestic clients. His approach is one of a collaborative partnership. His belief is that successful projects engage the input of entire project team –consultants and owner refining the vision by fully exhausting each detail.

A native of Maine, and third generation architect, he attended the University of Florida and Ball State University for Architecture School. He has been with TEG for 14 years and has grown in to a leadership position at the firm. He enjoys a lifelong passion for sailing, which along with being a husband to Meredith, father to Brice and Whitney, he continues to pursue.

903 Spring Street
Jeffersonville, Indiana 47130